REVIEWS:

“ 90 Points.

La Planta was aged for 6 months in seasoned French and American oak. Dark ruby in color, it offers up a pleasant bouquet of cedar, spice cabinet, violets, cola, and black cherry. Supple and easy-going, this medium-bodied wine has some light tannin, ample spicy red and black fruits, good flavors, and modest length. Drink this solid value in Ribera del Duero over the next four years. ”

“ 87 Points.

This lush, modern red is rich with sweet, toasty oak, ripe blackberry and cassis fruit, along with cola and mocha flavors supported by well-integrated tannins. A jammy style, but appealing. Drink now through 2012. ”
